

Be a Part of WRF18 in St. Louis!

The National Weather Association is coming to St. Louis August 25-30, 2018 for its Annual Convention.

Meteorologists from all over the country will be learning, sharing ideas, and reaching out to the community. Part of that is our huge public WeatherReady Fest that has something for everyone.

- Over 60 exhibits, games and activities
- Live Young meteorologist Rally led by Owlie Skywarn
- Lots of large weather equipment including chase vehicles, radars and mobile profilers
- Nick Walker from The Weather Channel
- The OU WeatherFriends
- Prizes, and much more!

WeatherReady Fest 2016 drew over 3,500 people to the Norfolk Waterfront for a day of learning fun. Last year's event in Santa Ana, CA at the Discovery Cube OC was a huge success with weather activities, fun games and two big stage shows. St. Louis will be even bigger!

Leverage your sponsorship dollars with an investment in a proven weather learning and preparedness event that appeals to families.